Contents

χi

List of figures and tables

Acknowledgements Preface
1	Introduction to language acquisition
	1.1	The issue	1
	1.2	What is language?	2
	1.3	Humans and other animals	8
	1.4	Getting the conditions right	13
	1.5	Chapter summary	17
	1.6	Suggested reading	18
	1.7	Suggested reading (advanced level)	18
	1.8	Useful websites	19
	1.9	Comprehension check	19
2	The	sounds of language	20
	2.1	The issue	20
	2.2	Speech perception: identifying the meaningful sounds of our language	21
	2.3	How do we learn to segment the speech stream?	32
	2.4	Speech production: learning to produce the meaningful sounds of our language	39
	2.5	Chapter summary	45
	2.6	Suggested reading	46
	2.7	Suggested reading (advanced level)	46
	2.8	Comprehension check	47
3	Learning the meaning of words
	3.1	The issue	49
	3.2	Constraints theory part I: the role of innate constraints	55
	3.3	Constraints theory part II: the developmental lexical principles framework	58
	3.4	Other routes to word learning	60
	3.5	The role of syntax: the syntactic bootstrapping account	68
	3.6	The integration: the emergentist coalition model (ECM)	73
	3.7	Chapter summary	77
	3.8	Suggested reading	78
	3.9	Suggested reading (advanced level)	78
	3.10	Comprehension check	79

4	Acquiring syntax	80
	4.1 The issue	80
	4.2 Nativist theories of syntax acquisition	86
	4.3 Constructivist theories of syntactic development	96
	4.4 How do children learn to constrain their productivity?	104
	4.5 Chapter summary	111
	4.6 Suggested reading	112
	4.7 Suggested reading (advanced level)	112
	4.8 Comprehension check	114
5	Acquiring morphology	115
	5.1 The issue	115
	5.2 What is inflectional morphology?	116
	5.3 How do children learn their language's inflectional system?	120
	5.4 Nativist accounts I: maturational theories	122
	5.5 Nativist accounts II: probabilistic parameter setting	125
	5.6 Constructivist theories	128
	5.7 How do we store and produce inflections?	131
	5.8 Chapter summary	141
	5.9 Suggested reading	142
	5.10 Suggested reading (advanced level)	143
	5.11 Comprehension check	144
6	Learning to communicate	145
	6.1 The issue	145
	6.2 Communication without words	146
	6.3 Communicating with language	154
	6.4 Communicative impairments	164
	6.5 Chapter summary	171
	6.6 Suggested reading	173
	6.7 Suggested reading (advanced level)	173
	6.8 Comprehension check	174
7	Multilingual language acquisition
	7.1 The issue	175
	7.2 One system or two?	176
	7.3 Predictors of successful bilingualism	189
	7.4 Effect of bilingualism on cognitive development	197
	7.5 Chapter summary	200
	7.6 Suggested reading	201
	7.7 Suggested reading (advanced level)	201
	7.8 Comprehension check	202
8	Explaining individual variation	203
	8.1 The issue	203

		Contents	ix
8.2	Individual variation		204
8.3	Extraordinary language acquisition		214
8.4	The relationship between language and cognitive impairment		220
8.5	Chapter summary		229
8.6	Suggested reading		230
8.7	Suggested reading (advanced level)		231
8.8	Useful websites		231
8.9	Comprehension check		231
9 The search for language universals			233
9.1	The issue		233
9.2	Language variation and language universals		233
9.3	Chomsky's Universal Grammar		234
9.4	The nature of the language learning mechanism		245
9.5	Chapter summary		256
9.6	Suggested reading		257
9.7	Suggested reading (advanced level)		257
9.8	Useful websites		258
9.9	Comprehension check		258
References Index			260 296